FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

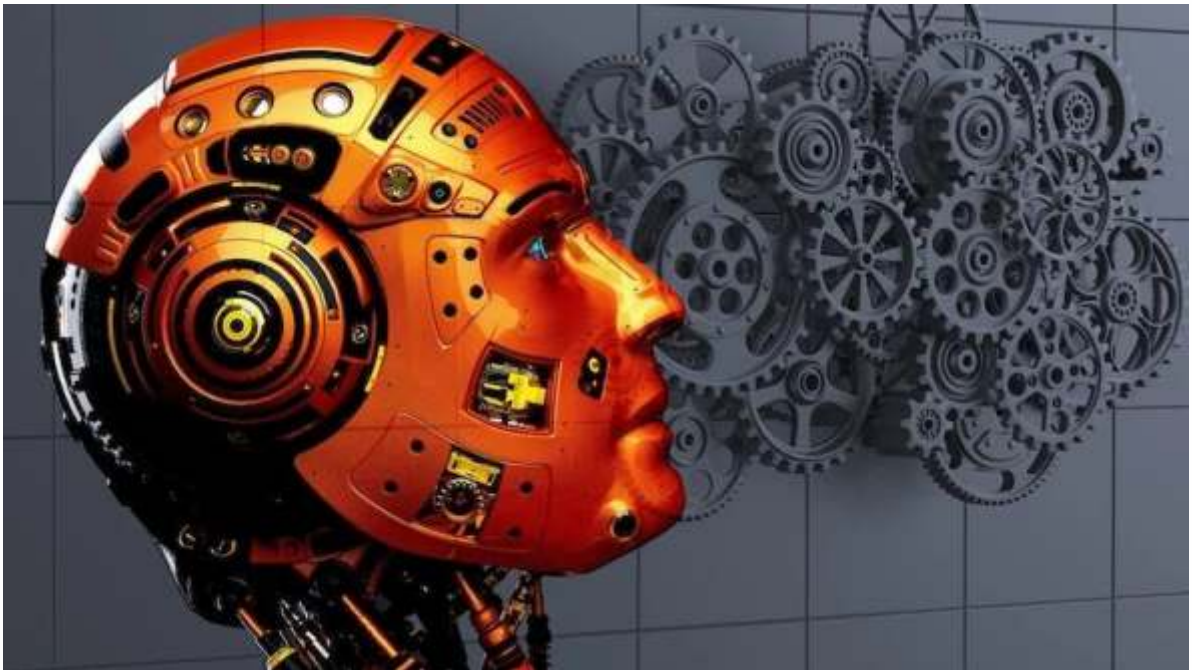

The concept of a "rise of the machines" is a common theme in science fiction, where machines or robots become sentient and rise up against their human creators. While this scenario is not likely to happen in reality, the increasing use of artificial intelligence (AI) does raise some concerns about the impact it may have on society.

One of the main concerns about AI is that it may lead to widespread job displacement as machines become more capable of performing tasks traditionally done by humans. However, some experts argue that this may actually lead to the creation of new jobs in fields related to AI development and maintenance.

Another concern is the potential for AI to be used in harmful ways, such as in the development of autonomous weapons or in the creation of biased algorithms that perpetuate social inequality. To address these concerns, there have been calls for greater regulation and oversight of AI development.

However, it is important to note that AI and human intelligence are different in nature, and AI may not be able to replicate all aspects of human intelligence, such as creativity, empathy, and intuition.

Overall, while the rise of the machines as portrayed in science fiction is unlikely, it is important to consider the potential implications of AI on society and take steps to ensure that it is developed and used in a responsible and ethical manner.

Celebrate Community Economic Development

Rotary and Rotaract members are passionate about finding sustainable solutions to the problem of poverty. By supporting projects that focus on creating employment opportunities and generating income, we can reduce poverty. During Community Economic Development Month, consider how you can address community needs and challenges. These Rotary resources can help you start a local project or support an international one:

- Contact your district international service chair, who can connect you with other local experts, such as members of the District Resource Network.
- Contact a Rotary Action Group to get expert advice on planning and implementing a project and help finding partners, funding, and resources. Many of these groups, for example, the action groups for community economic development, disaster assistance, and food plant solutions, focus on economic issues.

You can involve community members in your work:

- Sponsor or work with a Rotary Community Corps, which can engage members of the community where you're working and help a project become sustainable by empowering local leaders.
- Contact your district community service chair, who can advise you about developing local projects to address your community's needs. The service chair can also connect you to local organizations, district committees, and other Rotary groups that focus on service.

You can increase your impact by working with one of Rotary's service and project partners:

- Ashoka helps find creative solutions to social problems.
- Habitat for Humanity International provides safe and affordable homes to families in need.
- The Peace Corps promotes peace and community development.
- ShelterBox responds to disasters and emergencies with community assessments, temporary shelter, and essential aid.

Increase your impact

Rotary Community Corps boosts project impact by designing local solutions to local problems

Collaboration between community members and Rotary members plays a crucial role in increasing the impact of our projects. One example is the Ilaw Ng Tahanan Rotary Community Corps, which grew out of a 12-week service project by the Rotary Club of Tiaong-Hiyas, Quezon, Philippines. The project aimed to help mothers in the Lusacan community nurture their own well-being and improve both their health and their families'.

The participants developed strong bonds, and they realized that they wanted to keep supporting one another. With the backing of the Rotary club, the participants established the Rotary Community Corps of Ilaw Ng Tahanan (meaning "the one that lights up the home") to offer peer support to women throughout the community. Together, they will soon open a holistic wellness center that will help mothers with everything from vocational training to navigating the challenges that they and their families face. Visit the RCC's website to learn more about this successful collaboration and what it has planned.

Avenue of Service: Youth Service

Focusing on Rotary's young leaders

At Rotary, we're committed to empowering young leaders as critical partners in driving meaningful and positive change across local and global communities. Read our International Youth Day blog post to meet Hannah Shin, Surabhi Pandey, and Alberto Domenighini. These three former and current Youth Advisory Council members believe that, when Rotary and Rotaract clubs collaborate with young people, they increase the impact of their service projects and develop young

Enhance Participant Engagement

Attend a project fair

Do you want to support an international service project? Consider attending a project fair. These events, organized by districts, connect clubs and districts that are seeking international service projects with those that want to find international partners. Project fairs typically last two to three days, offer immersive cultural experiences, and may include hands-on service activities or visits to service project sites to help attendees understand local priorities. They're an effective way to build project partnerships between clubs and districts in different parts of the world.

An Letter from Rtn. Natalya Radovanskya
from Kyiv (Ukraine) of RC Kyiv

Significance of this cover

The stamps were first issued last year to honor the soldiers of Snake Island, who were hailed as heroes in Ukraine after they insulted Russian forces who were about to attack them, an exchange that went viral. Proceeds from sales of the stamp went to the Ukrainian war effort. (Stamp at top with ship in background) Ukrainians lined up by the hundreds at post offices across the country again after the postal service released stamps commemorating the sinking of a Russian warship in the Black Sea and a group of Ukrainian border guards who insulted Russian forces and were subsequently captured. Subsequently, the stamps have been reissued — with a twist. The previous set of six stamps featured a Ukrainian service member making a rude hand gesture at a Russian warship from the shore. The latest set includes three of those same stamps as well as three modified stamps showing the service member still standing, but not the ship.

Hello, Rajesh!

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

New Feature in this year

"Festivals Around The World."

Whether celebrating life or death, wildlife, religious deities, rowing, or even ice sculpting, festivals add another dimension to your travels. Streets thrum with music and kaleidoscopic parades, you might see traditional rituals that aren't performed at any other time, and you're fully embraced in local life as everyone joins in with the celebrations.

we shall share our pick of festivals around the globe that we feel are worth experiencing as part of a wider trip.

1. Iceland Airwaves, Iceland

I've been wanting to go to this for so, long. Rolling Stones magazine describes it as 'the hippest long weekend on the annual music-festival calendar', while Flora the Explorer says 'you're more than likely to spend half your time in the company of the very bands you've just seen performing'. Argh – too exciting!

Adding to its coolness is the fact that Iceland Airwaves started off in 1999 in an aeroplane hangar. It soon outgrew that and now takes place in an area just outside of Reykjavík in early November. I want to see Asgeir, so bad.

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

2. Lewes Bonfire, England

For the majority of the UK the 5th November means cosy bonfires, a quick round of sparklers and a munch on a toffee apple. For me, growing up, it was all down to the Barton-under-Needwood Bonfire (my village) for a whole night of drying to dodge the wayward rockets and fitting myself out in as many headband / neckband glow sticks as possible, while begging mum for the money for a soggy burger.

For the town of Lewes, near Sussex, Bonfire Night is a little more extreme. Flaming torches are the necessary accessory as the townspeople march through the streets dressed as Vikings, smugglers and any other bad boy character they can think of. They drag behind them a burning barrel of tar while occasionally chanting the odd 'kill the pope' in unison.

3. BaconFest in Pennsylvania, USA

Whether it's served with beans, in a roll, on a burger, slathered in sauce, with a fry up, round a prune, or a prawn... there's not much bacon doesn't go with. For US-based Babe lovers Pennsylvania's BaconFest is a chance to make their way through all things streaky, smoked and cured in the name of getting in the spirit.

Across one weekend (November 5th and 6th) BaconFest puts together a pork-packed schedule full of bacon-loving events to entertain the little piggies as well as the big ones.

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

What makes BaconFest all the better is that it pushes a good cause; to support local independent farms and get fresh farm food onto tables.

4. Chang Mai Lantern Festival, Thailand

I can't imagine how equally ethereal and grounding it must feel to be stand side by side with your fellow festival goers on a beach and look up look up to see the release of thousands of lanterns over Chang Mai, Thailand. A bucket list must, Yi Peng and Loy Krathong are two sacred events held annually to honour the Buddha. While you'll find similar lantern release rituals taking place across Asia on November 25th, it's Chiang Mai's greenery and scenery that make it the most spectacular place to be.

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

5. Blackpool Christmas Lights, England

As November gets underway so does the run-up to Christmas and out comes the traditional food, presents and twinkly lights. Blackpool amps up their usual low-key lighting display to showcase a more rambunctious selection, which includes beaming reindeer and sparkling Santas. To mark this annual occasion, the city holds a Christmas party afternoon from 3pm until 6pm. Along with the 10 metre tree, the Christmas bulbs will remain a-glowing in front of the Blackpool tower until Santa has been and gone.

6. VooDoo Fest, New Orleans, USA

Put the dolls away because, despite the name, the only thing you stick a pin in at VooDooFest is your Facebook location to show off to aaalll your friends that you're at this epic music festival.

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

New Orleans celebrates Halloween with a weekend of international music acts. Although you'd expect a lineup of renowned jazz acts from this soul city, more mainstream artists can be heard, along with up-and-comers, with past performances from Tiesto, Nine Inch Nails and 50 Cent.

7. Niagara Falls Festival of Lights, Canada

I went on the Maid in the Mist ride and hearing the power of the water cascading all around me was amazing. Nature at its most impressive.

As if the four million cubic feet of water cascading down a 50-metre drop isn't enough of a phenomenon, the November Festival of Lights adds strobes and dramatic tunes that I imagine would be one of the most incredible sights ever.

From mid-November right through until mid-December, the Ontario Power Generation Winter Festival of Lights cranks up the Christmas spirit with a 5km illumination route covering Niagara as well as the Dufferin Islands.

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

8. New York's Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, USA

While the turkey is roasting and the elasticated pants are ready on the hanger, nothing says Thanksgiving like the giant balloons and hundreds in fancy dress at the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. Have you ever seen the photos?

The annual march runs from the Upper East Side to midtown, and while it's also fun to watch on TV, I'd love to be in on the festive buzz of being in Manhattan for the live action.

9. Diwali, India, Pakistan, Nepal, Sri Lanka & more

Diwali is also known as the Festival of Lights – a November celebration of good overcoming evil. The date fluctuates depending on the year, although it usually falls around October or November, and it's celebrated by Hindus, Jains, Sikhs and some Buddhists across many countries.

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

10. Strawberry Fields, Australia

Festivals where the glitter and fancy dress prevail usually have the best atmosphere. Australia's main contender is Strawberry Fields. With a focus on creative expression, this is the electronic music festival for anyone who likes their November festivals wonderfully wacky.

The Strawberry Fields crowd is a loving bunch with high fives and hugs for anyone who wants to join. It's grown from techno and psytrance to be more inclusive, but the friendly core still go to set the tone.

11. Pushkar Camel Fair, Rajasthan, India

The Pushkar Camel Fair is one of the most important festivals in India. Every November the lunar cycle decides when the lakeside town of Pushkar reinvents itself as one of the biggest camel festivals in the world. This isn't just a day event though, the Pushkar Camel Fair goes on for 12 days, with the first 5 dedicated to buying and selling the animals.

It's not just about the camels, especially after day five – there are plenty of other fun things to do in Pushkar and at the festival to keep you busy.

Rotary Club of Secunderabad Sunrise Top Festivals around the world - November

12. Kendal Mountain Festival, England

The Kendal Mountain Festival is a great celebration of all things outdoorsy in the beautiful Lake District. Throughout the weekend you can expect a wide-ranging programme of films, competitions, tips, tricks and advice on The Great Outdoors. You can also find out more about the Lake District, and experience some of the adventure for yourself.
